The Way of Escape

By JOANNA SINGLE

Copyright, 1906, by P. C. Eastman

John Kingston was thoroughly angry. He pulled his cap over his eyes and rushed down a side street to escape Bradford, whose cheerful whistle seemed to be just behind him. He did not want to be pestered to play cards or golf or be pulled to the country club dance. He wanted solitude and his pipe and a chance to wonder why on earth Elizabeth Treynor should suddenly refuse to have anything to do with him after she had galled and picketed and sang with him all summer and after she had succeeded in getting him thoroughly into love with her.

He felt ill treated. He did not fall in love easily and in general he did not care for western girls, being a Connecticut man, Yale trained and Europe finished, before settling to practice medicine in the mid-west. Elizabeth was different, and as he reflected on the difference between her and all other girls in the world he heard Bradford whistling at the Treynor side gate for Jack and then asking if Kingston were there.

Kingston slipped over the fence in the twilight and clambered up the first conveniently low branched tree. Panting but triumphant he heard Bradford's account of how he had chased Kingston and lost him somewhere, and that he wanted him to take Nell Somers to the dance they had just got up on the spur of the moment. And where was Jack's sister? Bradford wanted to ask her to go with him.

Startled by the sound curiously like a suppressed snicker Kingston decided to climb higher. He reached up for a branch above him and seized a small, warm slipper that gave him a hand a little kick.

"Keep still, can't you, and let go my foot," a whisper admonished him. He looked up and saw Elizabeth sitting high and dry on a horizontal branch, swinging her feet and peering toward the house. "S-sh!" she warned again for her brother Jack and Bradford came into the garden.

"Elizabeth!" Jack called. Then "Confound girls anyhow! She was here five minutes ago, and her wraps are in the hall. She must be near." On the strength of Elizabeth's chuckle Dr. John Kingston climbed up and sat beside her. Her gray suit made her almost invisible in the growing dark, but he knew by heart the blue of her eyes, the rich brownness of her hair and the coldness of her manner to him of late.

"What are you doing here?" She tried to get hauteur into a whisper and failed.

"What you are—escaping Bradford evidently. I wouldn't go to the dance because you were to be there."

"Thanks," she replied. "Neither would I because you were to be there. That's why I'm here. One has to explain to Richard Bradford, and he always wants to know why."

"I'd like to know why myself."

"Oh, he still. Why doesn't he go?" whispered the girl, for the eternal Bradford sauntered under their tree and lighted his pipe.

"Don't wait for me, Jack, old man. I'll wait around a bit, and if she doesn't show up I'll come out alone."

"The confounded idiot!" Kingston whispered and put out a protecting hand when she seemed to sway a bit. She froze instantly, and he dared not venture excuse or protest.

The darkness had increased, and when the moon came sailing up Bradford swore at his luck and departed, clicking the gate behind him.

"Now, Dr. Kingston, I think you can make your escape."

"But I don't want to—now! May I not stay long enough to apologize for intruding on your tree solitude?" He spoke softly, with a delicate clipping of the r's. His fine, dark face bent toward her. "I have not meant to persecute you, but you did not answer my letter. I will never trouble you again, but will you not be fair enough to tell me just what I have done? You could do an enemy that just happened to his surprise she grasped his arm.

"Father and mother!" she murmured. "You'll have to stay. I couldn't explain to them why I am here!" Kingston hardly breathed, for she forgot to loosen the blessed hold on his sleeve.

"Mr. Treynor walked in portly pompousness beside his anxious little wife. "Elizabeth worries me so," she complained, and they seated themselves on a rustic bench.

"Can't you let it cologne and her trip to Europe, for she was lively till just of late. Now she doesn't enjoy society and is getting interested in the poor. And what do you suppose is her reason for refusing to have anything to do with that nice Dr. Kingston and—"

"Some fool notion," her father grunted.

"And taking up with that Bradford? I hope she won't marry him. I don't care if we have always known him—he doesn't seem quite nice. Well, he told Elizabeth that Dr. Kingston said at the club that western girls hadn't reserve enough—that he disapproved of co-education because it made girls too free and easy with men and a lot of stuff like that."

"She needn't be a fool if he did. He never meant it for her."

"No. I'm from New Hampshire, and she has lived there half her time during the last six years. I wonder where she is now? Probably at Anne's. She's safe enough. Jo, if you're going to sleep we might as well go in. I don't like talking to the air, and I don't like Dick Bradford, and I wish the children were home. Listen to that, now!" Two men, laughing and yelling, drove past in a car at a furious pace.

"It's Sam Brown," continued Mrs. Treynor. "I wish they didn't live next door. He's sure to kill some one sooner or later. He'll come back drunk about midnight and chase the family out doors. I think the public ought—"

Her voice died away as she entered the house with her husband.

Then Kingston turned and faced the still, proud girl beside him. She held her head high, her beautiful face full in the moonlight.

"Is that true—what your mother said? Is that why you treat me so? Won't you be fair enough to tell me?"

"Well, yes," she admitted. "I don't like being called underbred. It's not true, and you wouldn't like it yourself."

"It was a careless statement, exaggerated by Bradford, and made when I had met only a few girls of the Molly Raker type. You know perfectly well that it never applied to you in my mind or anybody's. I saw at a glance that you were thoroughbred—that you added to the older culture of the east the frank courage and honesty of the west; that you had the poise to be a law unto yourself—and unto me. Oh, I shall finish now, for I shall never speak to you again till you say you wish me to. You are a girl I could adore and be proud of, east or west. I would bear anything for one willing word of love from you."

You know me—my pedigree, education and behavior—the best of their kind. I haven't much money, though I shall have, but I have pride—as much as you."

He paused. Elizabeth looked straight at him.

"I was unfair, and I am sorry. I want you to—"

A furious rattle of wheels, a sound of cursing and yelling, and Sam Brown's cart careened dangerously as the terrified horse crashed into the fence just beneath Kingston started to leap down, then caught the girl's face to his breast and covered her ears with his hands to spare her the sight and sound of the drunken brute being dragged to death.

The horse broke loose and dashed away. A crowd gathered, and Kingston whispered, "Stay here—I'll be back in a moment and get you down."

He slipped down into the alley and out into the crowd.

In about twenty minutes—ages to the girl—he again scrambled up beside her.

"I did what there was to do—told them the life had gone out. He never knew what struck him. It's under-taker's work now. This has been miserable enough for you. Let me help you down and to the house." As she did not speak he looked at her. She laughed and held out her hand.

"Will you speak to me—now that I ask you to? You are—the nicest man I know." She took his hand and climbed down, he after her.

"Wait," he commanded, swinging down before her. "I shall lift you down." She was just in easy reach of his arm. "And another thing—I want you to—kiss me!"

His masterfulness took her breath. "Why should I?" she laughed at last. "It's improper—reason enough for a western girl." He teased.

"Impertinent and won't stand," she decided. "Another reason."

"Well, Elizabeth—do it—because you want to."

He held out his arms, and she could not find it in her heart to deny him.

Kingston and the Nightingales.

One evening at dinner Jean Ingelow confessed that though she had often written poems about nightingales, she had never heard one sing. Every one commented on this as extraordinary, and we agreed that a poetess' imagination was a marvelous gift, but we determined that not another night should pass without remedying this grievous omission. It was in May, and about 9 o'clock we led forth Miss Ingelow to the line avenue, where the nightingales were singing in scores. We all held our breath to listen as one after another, far and near, broke into song. Presently Miss Ingelow asked anxiously: "Well, are they singing yet? I don't hear anything." It transpired that, being a Londoner and unaccustomed to unknown shrubberies on a chilly spring evening, she had defied drafts by the simple expedient of putting cotton wool in her ears before venturing out—at least, she said it was on account of drafts, but I thought at the time and still think that her determination to be betrayed into nothing that could savor of sentimentalism had had something to do with it. However, she never minded being chaffed about it and enjoyed the joke as much as any of us.—G. B. Stuart in Lippincott's.

Sea Gulls as Pirates!

There may be an advantage in birds living in colonies, but I cannot see how any other birds would want to live near a colony of gulls. A gull in his own country will steal like a politician and murder like a pirate. They swarm about us like vultures after a battle.

The minute our approach drove a murmur or commotion from its nest, the gull, looking seawards, swooped down to eat the eggs and young. While the gulls are freebooters and robbers on the island, it is only when other birds are frightened from their nests that they have a chance to carry on their nefarious trade. Eternal vigilance is the price the latter pay for their eggs and young. Except when they are frightened by the approach of some person, their possessions are never left for an instant without a guard. But the fittest manage to survive on the rocks, and these gulls are the most useful birds in the bays and rivers about the waterfronts of our cities. They are valuable as scavengers and should be protected in every way. Three of them are equal to a buzzard. Ten of these gulls are equal to a pig.—The World Today.

PUMICE STONE.

The Best Quality Comes From The Island of Lipari.

We often hear it remarked, and particularly after the eruption of a volcano, that pumice stone ought to be plentiful and cheap, as quantities must have been ejected during the volcanic disturbance. As a matter of fact, however, none of the white stone in general use is obtained from active volcanoes. It comes from the deposits of the article discovered in one or two quarters of the globe, the best of which is at present to be found in the island of Lipari, situated in the Tyrrhenian sea.

The island is mountainous in character and consists of trails and lavas and of highly siliceous volcanic products. The district where the stone is found is called Campa Bianco or Monte Petalo, 1,500 feet above the level of the sea.

After riding a considerable distance, partly along precipitous paths sufficiently dangerous to be interesting and partly through vineyards and over grassy plains, one almost comes suddenly upon a seemingly snow clad valley, inclosed by hills quite white, and the whole gloriously bright on a sunny day. Into these deep hollows are successively digging deep burrows, working within by candlelight. In their excavations they come across many lumps of pumice stone, which are placed in baskets, subsequently being conveyed along the valley to the seashore, where small boats are loaded and sail to the seaport near by, where the stone is sorted, packed and shipped to distant parts either by way of Messina or Leghorn.

Adirondack.

The word "Adirondack" comes to us from the language of the Mohawks. With them it was Ha-de-ron-dack and meant wood eaters. This term was applied in derision to a few members of a once powerful branch of the Algonquians, who were defeated by the Iroquois and forced to seek refuge in a fastness of the mountains. They were in great distress, and it is said they sent messengers to their victors asking them to make no further war upon them, as they were reduced to the necessity of eating roots and the bark of trees. A few of them finally escaped to the north, and others were captured and held in slavery by the Mohawks.

The Giant of Lobsters.

The largest lobster ever caught on the coast of America was taken by a Belfast (Me.) fisherman in 1891. It weighed twenty-three pounds and measured thirty-seven inches from the end of its tail to the tip of the long front claws. The monster was too large to enter a common lobster trap, but as the trap was being drawn up it was caught in the netting and safely landed. Many years ago a lobster weighing twenty-two pounds was captured near the same place, and the event was considered to be of enough importance to be given a place in William's "History of Belfast."

Insect Bites.

The London Lancet remarks: "Many people do not know how easily they can protect themselves and their children against the bites of gnats and other insects. Weak carbolic acid sponges in the skin and hair and in some cases clothing will drive away the whole tribe. We have no doubt that horses and cattle could be protected in the same way from flies, which sometimes nearly madden them."

One View of Love.

Love is merely a madness, and, I tell you, deserves as well a dark house and a whip as madmen do, and the reason why they are not so punished and cured is that the lunacy is so ordinary that the whippers are in love too.—Shakespeare.

The Usual Result.

Little Willie—Pa, I'll be awful glad when I get old enough to do as I please. Pa—Naturally, my son, and when you reach that age you'll probably get married and not do it.

Eminent Doctors Praise Its Ingredients.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The Profession Does Not Make the Man.

The profession—the real theatrical one—has received a hard jolt from the Y. M. C. A., which has refused to admit as a member a gentleman who has trod the boards and is therefore, it is claimed, not a desirable candidate for the religious organization.

Acting as a desirable vocation is, of course, a matter of opinion. There are actors and bad actors but it is a noteworthy incongruity that some of the greatest actors are not very particular in their code of living while some of the most obscure and non-gifted are examples of righteousness. This goes to show that theatrical morality is a question of individuality and not of calling. Therefore it seems that there is little sound reason in a religious society refusing to accept a man because he was an actor. There is just about as much sense in that as there is in the antithesis of the world accepting a really questionable individual because he wears the mantle of a great actor or because he is such a genius and celebrity that all else is conveniently forgotten. Just because a man is an actor he should not be tabooed. If the man is not worthy let him be ignored but the profession should not be put under the ban.

The theatrical profession means hard work and hard work has always a disciplinary effect so while it may not change the individual if his stability or instability be pronounced, still it should tend to better rather than to depreciate his natural characteristics.

Lo, The Poor Mummy!

The resuscitated mummy
Is no longer at his ease,
For over the museum
Has swept a breezy breeze.
Content not quite to censure
The living beings here
The savants charge the dead ones
With antics very queer.
They claim they harbor microbes,
Disseminate them wide,
Tuberculosis lurking
At every mummy's side.
Oh science! thou art crafty,
There is no denying that;
The charges which you have made
The mummy can't combat.
That may be some great scholar
Who trod Egyptian rugs.
This may be some great soldier,
But now they say they're bugs.
Where once in admiration
And reverence men stood,
They now will flee from museums
And stay away for good.
Three thousand years in the lime light
These Egyptian wonders posed
But now their day is waning
Their careers will soon be closed.
But we look to the distant future
We pray there will come a day
When bacillus, like the Arab,
Will silently steal away.

A Question of Responsibility

It is a question whether or not a firm can justly hold the city of San Francisco responsible for the invasion of its place of business and the confiscation of the goods during the height of the city's calamity and in the midst of its great distress. The needs of the people were dire so they took possession of much food and canned goods without thought of money or idea of being criminal. They thought that the necessity of that time was sufficient reason for their action. The firms were powerless to question the justice of the seizure, but now they are sending in their bills to the city.

When we think of the hundreds of firms whose stock was burned up and did no good to any of the sufferers it would seem that the firms whose goods were useful and went into the starving mouths of the multitude instead of the insatiable flames should rejoice that they were the means of helping their fellows regardless of dollars and cents.

Of course if there are plenty of relief funds these firms should be compensated, but there are other things more urgent for which the relief money should first be expended.

It is good to know that our High School is to graduate five more young men and women and that it is prospering and is a most promising institution, disseminating more or less broad-mindedness and culture and learning in our community. The alumni of our High School are now many and we should be glad that a great number of them have remained in our midst. A great deal depends upon the young graduates and if this generation be high-minded and broad and liberal in its ideas the community will benefit from the citizenship from this source. Whether or not the graduates wish to follow up their educational training or take a technical course is purely a matter of personal desire and concerns only the individuals themselves. The good that a High School training does for the community in general is the general effect of producing a higher type of citizen.

Holidays May Last

Bank Commissioner Dunsmoor appeared Wednesday at the meeting of bankers in San Francisco which is considering special matters, and said that the great necessity for legal holidays had abated and that as one who had been instrumental in having the continuous legal holidays declared, he intended to speak to Governor Pardee on the subject. He wanted to know whether outside of the banking interests any need existed for a continuance of the legal holidays so that he might be in a position to talk understandingly with the Governor on the subject.

Several speakers said that private rights would be affected by the cessation of the holidays, and that fifteen or twenty days notice should be given before the discontinuance of the time. Many persons have lost their insurance policies, their contracts and other papers; and that their rights would be injured or lost altogether by a sudden stoppage of legal holidays.

Tourist Excursion Parties to the East Over the Scenic Line of the World

BRIEF MENTION

Our streets are now being sprinkled daily.

Daily Call and Index-Tribune $9 per year.

Daunt does the only reliable watch repairing.

A new roof is being put on the bank building.

Kitchen aprons for sale next Thursday afternoon.

Hunting notices printed at this office. The very latest form.

M. Kahn of Petaluma has sold his liquor business to John Lounibos.

The Sonoma Valley Bank is now doing its regular exchange business.

The Daily Chronicle and Index-Tribune only $9 for the two newspapers.

Middleton Glaister has erected a new fence in front of his Broadway cottage.

The local committee is caring for two sick refugees. One man has typhoid fever.

Now is the time to get your pumps and windmills at J. J. Dunbar's. Plumbing done.

Any repair work left at Mrs. Lutgen's will receive prompt attention by Daunt.

Just arrived at J. J. Dunbar's a fine assortment of the latest and best steel ranges and stoves.

Crops of all kinds never looked better at this season of the year in this valley, particularly is this so of hay, grain and fruit.

Work will shortly be resumed on Jack London's fine barn near Glen Ellen. Some of the storm work which was already in place was damaged by the earthquake.

Next Thursday afternoon a Garden Tea Party will be given by the Ladies' Aid Society at the home of Mrs. F. T. Duhring. There will be fine music, and a sale of kitchen aprons, candy, ice cream and coffee. Admission 10 cts.

Chas. Dal Pogetto is having his big store building replastered and otherwise improved. The offices in the upper story, including those of Dr. Byron, which were damaged by the earthquake, will be ready for occupancy next week.

Trout fishing in the various streams of Sonoma Valley has been exceptionally good the past week. While the limit has not been caught some fine baskets have been brought into town by local fishermen, the fish varying in size from eight to fourteen inches.

Ande Nowlin has sold the Windsor Herald to parties in Santa Rosa, who have moved the plant to that city. Ande was the only newspaper man in Sonoma county and his retirement from the local newspaper field will create a great void in journalistic circles in this county.

Our low prices will be maintained. Our immense stock in Petaluma will enable us to keep up our stock here in all lines. Dry Goods, Clothing, Millinery, Shoes, Underwear, Bedding, Bedsteads, Mattresses, Cents, Furnishing Goods, etc.

Racket Store, Sonoma.

Commencing Monday, May 28th, G. H. Hotz will reduce prices in most every department of his store. This will not be a great sale, but a general reduction to give all customers the advantage of his recent purchase of the Racket store stock of dry goods. Those wishing to purchase summer goods, wash skirts, shirt waists, wrappers, children's dresses and waists, blankets, comforters, shirts, pillow cases and many other staple articles should visit his store.

Postmaster Robbed.

G. W. Fouts, Postmaster at Riverton, Ia., nearly lost his life and was robbed of all comfort, according to his letter, which says: "For 20 years I had chronic liver complaint, which led to such a severe case of jaundice that even my finger nails turned yellow; when my doctor prescribed Electric Bitters, which cured me and kept me well for eleven years." Sure cure for Biliousness, Neuralgia, Weakness and all Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Bladder derangements. A wonderful Tonic.

At L. S. Simmons' drug store. 50 cents.

For Sale

Grand square Steinway piano and a quantity of household goods. Apply at Sonoma Grove.

Charges Filed in Nolan Case.

The charges of misconduct against Prof. Walter Nolan, principal of the Sonoma Grammar School, recently sworn to by Dr. A. E. Byron, were filed with the State Board of Education last Monday by State Superintendent of Schools Kirk, who has written to Dr. Byron and Prof. Nolan, that if both are willing to waive the statutory notice of thirty days, that the State Board will be enabled to try the case in either Oakland or Berkeley on June 7th and 8th. If not, the matter cannot be taken up until July. Dr. Byron has already notified Superintendent Kirk that he will be ready to introduce his evidence on June 7th, waiving his right to thirty days notice. Prof. Nolan has not as yet taken any action, but it is presumed he, too, will waive the statutory notice of thirty days in order to dispose of the matter as soon as possible.

Sonoma Bank Gets a Soaking.

The Sonoma Valley Bank premises received a thorough soaking on Thursday and Friday, owing to the roof being off the building when the rain came. The upper story, owned and occupied by Temple Lodge, No. 14, F. & A. M., which was rendered unsafe by the recent earthquake was being taken down, and the roof having been removed the rain went through the ceiling of the bank as though it were a sieve, flooding the building and ruining the plastering. Cashier Jesse Burris and Bookkeeper Arthur Luce, not being well-footed, were unable to do business during the rain yesterday as the floors of the bank were a veritable pond. Damage to the counters and other fixtures was averted by the liberal use of tarpaulins.

Fell into River.

Dr. Nufer, the veterinary surgeon, who resides at Kenilworth park, had a narrow escape Friday night of last week from death. He was walking toward East Petaluma about 10:30 o'clock and the bridge was open. Officer Utley had the red light out and the chain stretched across. Nufer's attention was attracted elsewhere and he did not see the danger he was facing. He kept on walking and some girls, who saw he did not observe the bridge being open, shouted to him, but it was too late and he fell headlong into the briny deep. After struggling for some time he reached shore and was none the worse, save for a ducking. The doctor is thankful he escaped so luckily.—Petaluma Courier.

Heavy Late Rain.

The belated rain which has been looked for and welcomed by the farmers began to fall on Thursday and continued through the night and Friday.

The down pour thoroughly soaked the ground and aside from the damage to cherries will do no harm. Hay and grain has grown rapidly the past week or two and although the crop at first looked light it now promises to be good.

Stakes for Two-Year-Olds.

Entries are now being made for the California State Fair Stakes for two-year-olds which include the A. B. Spreckels stake of $1000 for two-year-old trotters and the Ben Rush stake of $1000 for two-year-old pacers entries close June 1st.

They will be entered at Sacramento.

PERSONALS.

Expects to Resume Duties Soon.

Rev. Father Leahy was down from Sacramento the first of the week and states that he expects to be able to resume his duties as pastor of St. Francis' church about June the first. Father Leahy is convalescent from a recent operation and was at St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco during the calamity. The earthquake did no damage there but the fire finally swept down upon the big building and the patients had to be removed to places of safety. The reverend gentleman went to Sacramento where he entered the Mater Misericordiae Hospital. His many friends and parishioners will be glad to hear that he is improving rapidly.

EL VERANO. By Occasional.

F. A. Riser went to Tancered last Thursday.

J. K. Bigelow went to Oakland and San Francisco last Tuesday.

Harry Serres is in San Francisco this week viewing the ruins.

Mrs. Marie Lamotte was a visitor to Berkeley the fore part of the week.

Miss M. Crane of San Francisco is a guest at the Daughney residence.

Pop Hebbard of Sonoma was in town Wednesday talking earthquake.

Leo Baines contemplates a trip to Sacramento the first of next week.

Colonel McGarrity is a believer in the old adage that "it is never too late to learn."

Charley Daniel's new Italian-American Hotel bus is now ready for use and is the real thing.

A ball game will take place here Sunday between two crack San Francisco teams, composed of summer visitors in this place.

The carpenter crew of the Southern Pacific Company are at this place and a large steel tank will be built in place of the one that was shaken down by the earthquake.

Mr. P. Simons has received good news from the burned city. While clearing away the debris from his premises a barrel of grape brandy was found and sent to him. Genial Tom is treating his friends these days, and they are quite a few.

Mr. Jack Cant is cutting quite a dash this week sporting a new Panama straw. Quite different is his good friend Mike Meyer, who is looking for some one to cut a dash in a pair of $15 trousers, they being just a little too long or a little too short.

While taking a quiet stroll a few evenings ago our learned friend, Mr. Piche, was nearly frightened to death by a big rattlesnake, which he declares appeared to him to be about twenty-five feet long, and strange to relate Mr. Piche positively asserts that he had not indulged in Mr. T. Simons grape brandy.

Some people are really in hard luck. After getting away from the brick pile in San Francisco Mr. George Taylor of El Verano Villa and his friends, Mr. Gibbons and L. Ludeman, were caught trespassing and were fined $5.00 a piece. They did not have the cash, their safes being too warm to open as yet, and they were put to work clearing fox tails from the roads. They asked help from the Big Four but got the glassy eye instead.

THE GRADUATING EXERCISES OF THE HIGH SCHOOL.

Arrangements Perfected For Commencement by Class of 1906.

The class of 1906 of the Sonoma Valley Union High School will hold its commencement exercises in Union Hall, Friday evening, June the first. Benj. Weed will deliver an address and there will be papers by the various members of the class. Those who will graduate are Misses Jeanette Harris, Hazel Gies and Elizabeth Davis, George Campbell and Ernest Clewe.

Young Campbell is president of the class. The prophecy will be written by Miss Elizabeth Davis.

H. Siess Stock is Sold.

The bids were opened Friday of last week for the sale of the stock of the late H. Siess' stores in Petaluma and Sonoma.

Five bids were received at the offices of Lippitt & Lippitt who transacted the business of the sale.

The bids were all very close to the same figure and Carithers & Forsyth of Santa Rosa got the stock of the Petaluma store at about 65 cents on the dollar. Raymond Brothers bought the fixtures and G. H. Hotz of Sonoma bought the Sonoma store.

The firm of Carithers & Forsyth started in early last Saturday morning to have their goods sent to Santa Rosa by the electric road.

They are putting up a new building 60x60 and were ready for business on last Tuesday. They formerly conducted the White House in Santa Rosa.

Given the Run.

Three hoboes came into town Monday and after being here a short time went into a local saloon and tried to start a rough house.

One of them threatened to break a window in the place whereupon Deputy Sheriff Ryan was sent for and promptly gave them the run.

A Garden Tea will be given on Thursday afternoon, May 31st, by the Congregational Ladies' Aid Society at the home of Mrs. F. T. Duhring. There will be music and a sale of kitchen aprons, candy, ice cream and coffee. Admission, 10 cents.

Sunday Services Will be of Great Interest.

The Sunday services at the Congregational church to-morrow will be of particular interest. In the morning there will be a baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the High School by request of the graduates. All friends of the young people, of the school and education are especially invited to be present.

In the evening there will be a Memorial Address by Rev. Mr. Cragin from the standpoint of a veteran of the Civil War. All who wish to learn some of the lessons of the war or to honor the memories of the fallen soldiers should attend. The American flag will be in evidence.

Miss Lydia Luttrell of Berkeley is visiting Mrs. Wm. Jones.

Mr. Jacob Fridger was in Oakland two days last week on business.

Stephen Urkoff is very ill and has been confined to his room for three weeks.

Mr. Robert Babkirk of the city is spending a week with Mr. Wm. Jones.

Miss L. Ball returned home from Oakland last Monday after a week's vacation.

Mrs. Moosely, mother of Mrs. Woodworth, is sick. Dr. Crepin is attending her.

J. H. Weise lost a cow last week. It was run over by a Southern Pacific freight train.

Dr. Crepin has been confined to his bed two days with a bad cold, but is now quite well.

Miss Crepin was in Oakland two days last week, where she went to hear Sarah Bernhardt, the great actress.

THE STANDARD YARD.

That in Use in Great Britain and the United States.

The yard is the British and American standard of length. Down to 1824 the original standard of Britain, from which ours was copied, was a rod, which had been deposited in the court of exchequer, London, in the time of Queen Elizabeth. In those days all measures intended for general use were taken to the court of exchequer to be examined by the proper officer. That official took the proposed measure and placed it parallel with the standard and if found correct placed certain marks of identification upon it. By an act of parliament in 1824 the old Elizabethan standard was superseded by another, which had been constructed under the directions of the Royal Society sixty-four years previous. This act provided that "the straight line of distance between the centers of two points in the gold standard in the brass rod now in the custody of the clerk of the house of commons shall be the genuine standard of the yard measure in Great Britain." The act further provided that the measurements of the rod must be made when the temperature of the brass was at 62 degrees F.

The standard was destroyed by fire in 1834, and the commission appointed to replace it made the yard measure now in use. The new standard was deposited in the house of parliament in 1835, and authenticated copies of it are in the possession of our government officials at Washington.

THE DEAD SEA.

Work of the Salt Divers in This Desolate Waste.

The awful desolation of the Dead sea, which lies nearly 1,300 feet below the level of the Mediterranean, is broken here and there by the salt divers, whose work is probably as ancient as the human race itself.

From remotest antiquity the salt of the Dead sea has been collected and taken to the Jerusalem market, where it is used for curing hides and for domestic purposes. Dead sea water contains over 25 per cent of solid substances, of which 7 per cent is chloride of sodium, or common salt.

The Dead sea contains no living creature. Sea fish put into its waters speedily die. Not a single boat navigates its strange waters, nor is there any sign of life, save the isolated parties of salt divers, who scrape and slowly amass their glistening heaps of crystal near the mouth of the Jordan.

When a sufficient cargo is made ready a long string of camels crosses the desert, and the salt is loaded up into panniers, or "sawberries," and taken into Jerusalem, where it finds a ready market.

Salt, as is well known, has been used as currency from time immemorial, just as bricks of tea are used today in central Asia, especially in the borderland of China and Siberia.—Technical World Magazine.

ARTIFICIAL BALDNESS.

The Ancient and Strange Custom of Shaving the Head.

A historical inquiry into the origin of the custom of shaving the head, which is practiced in several countries, would be interesting.

It was not until the fifth century that in Europe priests began to shave their crowns. The Roman clergy then adopted the circular method and shaved that small round spot on the top of the head which is known as the tonsure. In Scotland, however, the monks shaved the whole of the fore part of the head from ear to ear.

In the Andaman Islands every man shaves his head, or rather, gets his wife to shave it for him. Many other "orientals" also get baldheaded.

As for the Chinaman, his method of shaving is exactly opposed to that of the Roman monk. He shaves all but a round patch, the hair of which grows long and forms the pigtail.

When the difficulty of shaving the head is borne in mind the true strangeness of the custom becomes doubly apparent. It is hard to see the advantage of it, yet in one form or another and at one time or other it has been practiced in nearly every country.

Cruel Elephant Hunters.
A correspondent of the London Times writes of elephant hunting in Africa: "The most deadly method of killing elephants, and that most frequently employed by the natives of east Africa, is the pit, sufficiently deep—roughly twenty feet long and wide to engulf and hold an elephant. After a period of frantic struggling, hunger and exhaustion the wretched animal is done to death by native spears. If the size and powers of the animal are remembered it is difficult to imagine a more revolting, brutal picture of torture, but this is the common practice of the natives of the country and is being enacted daily throughout British territory."

Unlucky.
There is an ancient jest in Paris which originated with a waiter. A guest had ordered a dozen oysters. "Only one dozen?" asked the waiter. "Yes, that will be enough." "You are not superstitious, then," said the waiter with a curious smile. "Why?" "Because you are not afraid of being thirteen at table."

Different Tellings.
The Doctor—You never can disguise the real thing. Culture will tell. The Professor—Yes, so will ignorance, but it generally uses more words in telling it.—Chicago Tribune.

The God who gave us life gave us liberty at the same time.—Jefferson.

SUPERFICIAL SENTIMENT.

Secret of Power Lies in Intensity of Emotion.

Superficial sentiment is without vital influence. The secret of power lies in the intensity of emotion, but especially so in poetry, art and literature. By no means can artists and writers adequately depict what they do not feel. There should be a thermometer of temperament as well as for temperature. Feeling and emotion have their degrees. We are serene when our feelings are in the temperate zone, indignant when we pass eighty-three, furious when we reach blood heat, mad at boiling point. When feeling falls below 50 we become indifferent, and when it reaches freezing point we are heartless. An emotion that does not attain the seventy-sixth degree is hardly worth recording. At summer heat nature becomes poetic. While the temperate is the proper sphere for pure reason and scientific observation, it is rarely, if ever, proper for the highest achievement in any art. In the world of art imagination and feeling are not content with a serenity that touches the borders of indifference. The creative instinct is never effective unless at a certain pitch of enthusiasm. It is the sharp, clear, brilliant current of thought that electrifies the brain. But an idea is worthless unless we can find a form to hold it. In the best work, idea, form and feeling appear to the beholder as one. An electric bolt seems a cold thing, yet a stroke of lightning will consume more at one flash than an ordinary fire would consume in an hour.—Francis Grierson in Critic.

Do You Love

your baby? You wonder why he cries. Buy a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and he will never cry. Most babies have worms, and the mother doesn't know it. White's Cream Vermifuge is the child of science and cleans out its system in a pleasant way. Every mother should keep a bottle of this medicine in the house. With it, fear need never enter her mind. Price 25c. Sold by L. S. Simmons.

GETTING THE NEWS.

Method Adopted at the Outbreak of the Revolutionary War.

In contrast to the workings of the newspaper of the day and of the rapid transmission of tidings without the aid of even a wire to guide the message is a document printed in the Berkshire Courier at the beginning of the Revolutionary war. But evidently people were as eager then as now to hear the news.

"For the Purpose of getting Speedy and Certain Intelligence from the Army at Boston. We the Subscribers hereby promise and agree to ride from this town to Tyngsboro or Sheffield by Tams to see to bring Intelligence from thence each Day (the Sabbath excepted) and to Report the same at the House of Mr. Josiah Smith.—And in Case no regular method is come into for bringing the News to Said Tyngsboro we promise to bear our proportionable part of the Expense in procuring Intelligence from Springfield twice in each Week.—Witness our hands this 3rd Day of May 1775."

Following this agreement is a list of days, with the names of the citizens who were to be riders. Jacob Van Deusen, who agreed to be the first man to ride to Tyngsboro or Sheffield, was to go for it on Monday, May 8, and Mark Hopkins was to follow on Wednesday, the service from that time on alternating, except as to the Sabbath, which compelled a no news interval of two days in the week.

Not if as Rich as Rockefeller

If you had all the wealth of Rockefeller, the Standard Oil magnate, you could not buy a better medicine for bowel complaints than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The most eminent physician can not prescribe a better preparation for colic and diarrhoea, both for children and adults. The uniform success of this remedy has shown it to be superior to all others. It never fails and when reduced with water and sweetened, is pleasant to take. Every family should be supplied with it. Sold by L. S. Simmons.

Write as You Feel.
If you would write to any purpose, you must be perfectly free from within. Give yourself the natural rein; think on no pattern, no patron, no paper, no press, no public; think on nothing, but follow your impulses. Give yourself as you are—what you are and how you see it. Every man sees with his own eyes or does not see at all.—Emerson.

Stop Grumbling
If you suffer from Rheumatism or pains for Ballard's Snow Liniment will bring quick relief. It is a sure cure for Sprains, Rheumatism, contracted Muscles and all pains—and within the reach of all. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00. C. R. Smith, Tenaha, Tex., writes: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment in my family for years and have found it a fine remedy for all pains and aches. I recommend it for pains in the chest."

If You Don't
succeed the first time use Herbine and you will get instant relief. The greatest living regulator. A positive cure for Constipation, Dyspepsia, Malaria, Chills and Liver Complaints. Mr. C. E. Emory, Texas, writes: "My wife has been using Herbine for herself and children for five years. It is a sure cure for constipation and malaria. I feel, which is substantiated by what it has done for my family."

Sold by L. S. Simmons.

Wanted—Men in each State to travel, post signs, advertise and leave samples of our goods. Salary $75.00 per month; $3.00 per day for expenses. Kuhlman Co., Dept. S, Atlas Block, Chicago.

BOGUS ANTIQUES.

Collectors Constantly on Their Guard Against Fraud.

Collectors of antiques have to be all the time on their guard against fraud. Even then they are often deceived. Artists exist who can impose on the very elect. A well known collector had a precious box of rare enamel. He sent it to Vienna to be repaired, and the ingenious menditor fitted it with a new lid. Then he put a new lower part to the original lid, and two collectors were made happy.

A gem cutter took a modern gold Greek ring, recut the stone with an intaglio of an important subject, made a turkey swallow the ring and after some time killed the turkey. The residue in the bird's crop had endowed the gem with all the marks of age.

A scholar in a little known part of Dalmatia was seeking gird coins and ornaments of the old Serbian dynasty. A dealer came to him with a beautiful wrought crucifix, which he claimed to be a genuine antique. In examining the article with a glass the student came across a tiny inscription, and, better versed than the dealer gave him credit for being, he read it aloud. "This cross was made in 1893 by —," giving the name of the maker it said. The dealer stood not on the order of his going, but left at once.

Many a reputed article is its own undoing. At one time a number of lead coins were put on the market as antiques. It was discovered that the Arabic numerals with which they were dated were of the fashion not invented at the supposed time of their making. Collectors, young and old, trained and untrained, are constantly being taken in. Even museums themselves are not free from fakes.

Sciatica Cured After Twenty Years Torture.

For more than twenty years Mr. J. B. Massey of 3322 Clinton st., Minneapolis, Minn., was tortured by sciatica. The pain and suffering which he endured during this time is beyond comprehension. Nothing gave him permanent relief until he used Chamberlain's Pain Balm. One application of that liniment relieved the pain and made sleep and rest possible, and less than one bottle has effected a permanent cure. Mr. Massey relates his experience for the benefit of others who may be similarly afflicted. If troubled with sciatica or rheumatism why not try Chamberlain's Pain Balm and see for yourself how quickly it relieves the pain. For sale by L. S. Simmons.

SPEED OF INSECTS.

A Common House Fly Travels a Mile in Thirty-three Seconds.

It is the popular belief that the flight of the birds is much swifter than that of the insects, but a number of naturalists who have been making a study of the matter think that such is not the case.

A common house fly, for example, is not very rapid in its flight, but wings make 800 beats a second, and send it through the air twenty-five feet, under ordinary circumstances, in that space of time. When the insect is alarmed, however, it has been found that it can increase its rate of speed by over 100 feet per second. If it could continue such rapid flight for a mile in a straight line, it would cover that distance in exactly thirty-three seconds.

It is not an uncommon thing when traveling by rail in the summer time to see a bee or wasp keeping up with the train and trying to get in at one of the windows. A swallow is considered one of the swiftest of flying birds, and it was formerly thought that no insect could escape it.

A naturalist, however, told of an exciting chase he saw between a swallow and a dragon fly, which is among the swiftest of insects. The insect flew with incredible speed and wheeled and dodged with such ease that the swallow, despite its utmost efforts, completely failed to overtake it.

It Is Dangerous to Neglect a Cold

How often do we hear it remarked: "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that it is almost impossible to overstate the danger of neglecting a cold. A cold, however slight, should not be disregarded. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia, and has gained its great popularity and extensive sale by its prompt cures of this this most common ailment. It cures and is pleasant to take. For sale by L. S. Simmons.

The Water Pitcher.

The following simple method of keeping ice water in a common pitcher is worth knowing: Put a layer of cotton batting between two sheets of wrapping paper three inches higher than the pitcher. Fasten the ends of the paper and batting together, forming a circle. Paste a cover over one end of the batting and paper. This cover, when over a pitcher, must come close to the stand and so exclude the air, and ice will keep a long time. This paper cover will be found of great service in a sickroom for both milk and water pitchers.

Devotion.
That was a remarkable instance of devotion to which an Italian journal referred some time ago, wherein a husband on hearing that his wife looked her best in mourning committed suicide so that she might have an opportunity to wear it.—London Queen.

Sarcasm.
Young Doctor—He seems to have every confidence in my ability to save him. Old Doctor—Is he delirious on other subjects also?—Judge.

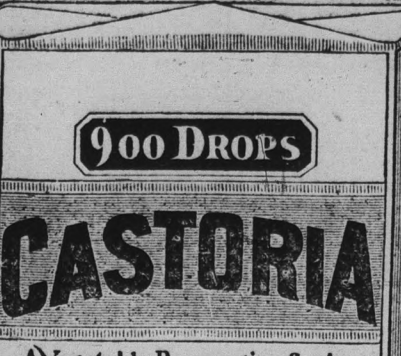

The laxative effect of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablet is so agreeable and so natural you can hardly realize that it is produced by a medicine. These tablets are made of purest ingredients and are entirely free from any harmful effects. Price 25 cents. Sold by L. S. Simmons.

Two Profits One Investment.

Look out for that "rainy day" It comes sooner or later for so many—we can't tell to-day who may want on the morrow.

Prepare now while you are able for any misfortune that may overtake you. Don't run any risks.

Here is something that will help you provide for the rainy day—an investment that carries with it unusual benefits and proves its value from the minute you buy the stock.

Smith's Cash Store is well and favorably known all over the West. Its reputation is of the best and in volume of business it is making tremendous strides for the year. Some five years ago the stock was selling for $5.00 a share. To-day the price is $10.00 a share. These figures demonstrate what a thriving institution is the largest Mail Order House on the Pacific Coast.

Each share of stock is guaranteed to earn 10 per cent a year. But the greatest benefit is derived by the stockholder from the discounts given to the holders of five or more shares of stock. You can buy anything to eat, use or wear at the same price the goods would cost your local dealers. We call them "Owner's Prices."

Suppose you buy goods that altogether cost $20.00 and you must not be too sure that something of that sort will not happen—think what it will mean to you to be able to buy everything at cost prices. It might be the very thing that would help you to survive the period of distress.

We are increasing the amount of our capital stock. We are telling you about the stock because we think you ought to invest for your own sake. You couldn't pay us in any other concern that would pay you so well.

It will not be long before the price of the stock is advanced. You know that means there are many days remaining in which you can take advantage of this great offer.

For your convenience we are printing a coupon which you must not let slip out of your hands. It does not obligate you in any way. Send it at once.
